

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please replace the abstract with the following paragraph:

-- The present invention concerns an authentication device of a message comprising a message storage device, a protected device connected to said storage device, a display device connected to said protected device. The protected device is constituted by a microprocessor card provided with inputs/outputs  $I_1/O_1$  of commands/data for the link with said storage device and  $I_2/O_2$  of display for the link with said display device, physically separate.--